RULE AGAINST LIQUOR

Good Templars Adopt Resolutions After Debate.

PART OF OFFICIAL REPORT

Guy Hayler, International Electoral Superintendent, Discusses Question—Esperanto to Be Taught in Lodges, So International Business Can Be Speedily Expeditd.

Resolutions denouncing the liquor traffic as a "covenant with sin and death," and urging total prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating drinks, were unanimously adopted by the delegates to the international convention of Good Templars, in session at the Pythian Temple last night.

The resolutions were presented as part of the first triennial report of the international electoral superintendent, Guy Hayler, and were adopted only after debate lasting during the entire afternoon and night sessions.

In presenting his report, the electoral superintendent said: "The liquor traffic is the greatest curse of humanity, casting its blight upon home life, destroying manhood, hindering church and school work, impeding commerce, corrupting all forms of government, and paralyzing our free institutions. The only correct attitude of all good citizens toward this huge iniquity should be one of uncompromising hostility until it is suppressed."

Meets Again This Morning.

But little other matters of business were considered during the evening session, other than the adoption of the report of the temperance legislation committee. At 10 o'clock the session adjourned, to meet again this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Acting upon the recommendation of Edward Wavrinaki, international chief templar, the committee on literature proposed in its report submitted yesterday morning to have the study of Esperanto made a part of the course of study of all lodges of the organization. The report was adopted after little discussion.

The reason given for adopting Esperanto was that it will enable all future international gatherings of the Good Templars to transact business in a uniform language. In approving the action taken by the delegates, Mr. Wavrinaki, the presiding officer, said: "I think we are taking a step in the right direction by adopting this universal language for our order. Esperanto is an international language, and this organization is an international body, therefore, it is only fair we should adopt it, giving all our members the same chance."

It is the purpose of the international chief templar to give the password of the International Order of Good Templars, in Esperanto hereafter.

Wants International Magazine.

Shortly before the morning session adjourned, J. H. Hopkins, of Birmingham, England, presented a brief report as chairman of the committee on juvenile work. He reported flourishing conditions and recommended that an international DISTRICT MOVING DAY SET.

New Municipal Building to Be Occupied on July 6.

Moving day for the District government and its employes has been announced as on Monday, July 6. On and after that day all District business will be transacted in the new Municipal Building, at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.

Commissioner West said yesterday that he will recommend that the District Building be closed to the public after noon on July 1, 2, and 3, in order that the clerks may remove the thousands of records and papers, which must be carefully carried to the new home and arranged in their properly classified places, that there be no interruption in the work of the District business.

The furniture and equipment committee for the new building, consisting of W. C. Allen, electrical engineer, and Marlon Hargrove, property clerk, are hard at work arranging desks and file cases in the building. Practically all the furniture will be new, in order that it be in keeping with its surroundings.

No action has yet been taken by the special committee appointed to determine which of the rival factions in the District is acting within the law. While unconfined, it was said yesterday the grand executive committee recently voted to place the territory and resources of the Grand Lodge of the District of Columbia under the direct administration of the National Grand Lodge until the annual session in December.

The delegates to the convention will be the guests of the local Good Templars on an excursion to Mount Vernon tomorrow. Monday they will be received by President Roosevelt at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The rest of the day will be spent sight-seeing, and Monday evening a banquet will be tendered them by the local lodges at the Dracott Hotel.

WANTED BY BOSTON POLICE.

Woman Held for Trying to Palm Diamond Indicted in Hub City.

Capt. Boardman, chief of detectives and acting superintendent of police, yesterday received a letter from the chief of police of Boston, Mass., saying that the woman convicted of vagrancy several days ago under the name of Mrs. Paul Matchette is wanted in Boston for the larceny of a diamond valued at $750.

A warrant for her arrest was sent, and extradition papers will be forwarded the first of next week.

Chief Pierce said in his letter that the woman, who is now in the workhouse, is known in Boston as Lee Fitzhugh, alias Ethel Matchette, alias Sullivan. She was indicted by the grand jury this week, and the bill is returnable Saturday. She is charged with taking a diamond valued at $750 from Thomas Long & Co. diamond dealers, at 39 and 41 Summer street, on May 3. A picture sent by the Washington department was identified by the diamond dealers as that of the woman known to them as Lee Fitzhugh, who stole the diamond.

Ethel Matchette, or Silver, as she is known to the local police, was arrested last week by Central Office Detectives Pratt and Parham, after she had failed in an attempt to palm a valuable diamond ring in an F street jewelry store. Two men, giving their names as Matchette, her husband, and Fred Hamilton, a friend, were arrested at the same time.

HOME FOR OLD SOLDIERS.

President Asked to Provide for Veterans of Potomac Department.

Judge Ivory G. Kimball has requested the President to have the government furnish quarters in this city for the Department of the Potomac, Grand Army of the Republic.

The old soldiers are dying off so rapidly that it is difficult for them to meet the expenses of maintaining a hall, and Judge Kimball, a former commander of the department, and present acting commander, informed the President that many of the States have already taken the matter up and in some cases have provided quarters for the old soldiers.

President Roosevelt informed Judge Kimball that he would look into the matter. It has been suggested that the old Sixth street station be made use of.

August, 1906, while on a car bound for Livingston Heights, Va., she was requested by the conductor to leave the seat she was occupying and take one at the rear of the car, behind all the white passengers, on the ground that the Virginia law compels negroes to ride back of the whites in all cars.

Upon her refusal, she was arrested and detained for several hours at Rosslyn.

CUT PRICES OF LOBSTERS.

Commissioner Bowers Says Culture Lopped Fifty Cents Off Each.

Lobsters have been reduced over 50 cents in price on account of the propagation work done by the Fish Commission, according to Commissioner George M. Bowers, who has just returned from the government hatcheries along the Maine coast.

"We propagated 110,000,000 lobsters and turned them loose at the Booth Bay Harbor Hatchery, in Maine, during the past year," said Mr. Bowers. "We began the propagation of lobsters four years ago, when the catches were diminishing, and have annually increased the number of lobsters turned loose to nature."

"In Boston, where I stopped on my way back, I went through several fish markets, and found that the price of lobsters ranged from 9 to 14 cents. Four years ago, when we began to propagate, the price ranged from 22 to 50 cents, and was gradually increasing on account of the decreased catches."

Miss Hetzel, widely known as the organizer of the American Revolution societies, died yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, after an illness of several days' duration.

She was a complication of diseases, including an attack of pneumonia, which was taken ill at her home, in the northwest, early in February. She was removed to Montross, a country home of her mother, Mrs. Edmund Pendleton, at the time the disease had elapsed necessitated her removal to a sanatorium in this city.

She was the daughter of Capt. John and his wife, nee Smith. Her brother, the late John Hetzel, was graduated from the law, but abandoned the profession to enter the law. She is survived by her sister, Mrs. Edmund

MILK DEALERS NOT IMMUNE.

Prosecutions Continue Despite Police Court Ruling.

It seems probable that the milk dealers who are rejoicing over the decision of Judge Mulowny in the Police Court to the effect that the health department has not the legal right to examine and analyze milk for the purpose of prosecution, when adulteration or impurity is found, may have rejoiced too soon.

The Commissioners said yesterday that they think the milk inspection can be carried on with a possible change of the method of analysis and prosecution, and that their endeavors will be continued as earnestly as possible.

At a conference yesterday morning between Commissioner Macfarland and Health Officer Woodward over the decision of the Police Court judge, it was agreed to seek the advice of the corporation counsel. Counsel Thomas advised that an appeal be taken to the Court of Appeals, and that meantime the health department inspectors proceed with their work, and whenever they find violations of the law, prepare cases for prosecution.

This will be done at the request of Commissioner Macfarland, and the corporation counsel will see if there is anything else that can be done to strengthen the position of the Commissioners. After the conference, Commissioner Macfarland said:

"We shall, of course, do everything in our power to continue to safeguard the milk supply. The efforts of the District government have been hampered by lack of adequate force, and adequate means, and by opposition from interested parties. Yet they have resulted in a great improvement in the conditions, and this must not be lost in any degree."

WENT TO MEET AN AUNT.

No Basis for Story that Miss Maury Eloped with Mr. Reyburn.

The family and friends of Miss Georgie Maury, who was reported to have eloped with William Stewart Reyburn, are endeavoring to trace the story, which they believe to have had a mischievous, cruel, and possibly malicious origin.

There was no mystery, they say, in Miss Maury's trip to New York. She accompanied her friend, Miss Carney, who went to meet an aunt, who was arriving in that city in feeble health. Mr. Reyburn acted as their escort to New York, and the party went by a morning train. He saw them to their destination, where they joined the aunt and returned with her the following day. Mr. Reyburn preceded them.

There was absolutely nothing in the episode, Miss Maury says, to warrant the story of an elopement or give proper basis for any sensational gossip. Her mother at once denied the reported marriage and reiterated the denial yesterday.

Heavy Sentence for Theft Suspended During Good Behavior.

Mrs. Annie L. Beverly, a widow, about seventy years old, was fined $1,000 with an alternative of one year in jail, by Judge Kimball in the Police Court yesterday, on a charge of the larceny of valuable books from the Public Library.

Upon recommendation of Assistant
United States Attorney Ralph Given, sentence was suspended during the good behavior of the defendant.

The accused is said to be connected with a prominent Virginia family, and is a woman of decided literary tastes.
For several months she has been a fre-quenter of the Public Library and was well known to the attaches at the institution. Several days ago fifteen standard English romances were missed from the library. Search was made, but to no effect. Wednesday, persons living at 1602 Eighth street, where Mrs. Beverly lived, prior going to Tennallytown to spend the summer, found seven of the missing books in the rooms vacated by her, and turned them in to the library.

Librarian George F. Bowerman notified the police and Detective Evans, of the central office, and Detective Grove, of the Seventh precinct, were detailed to the case. They recovered the remaining books and brought the widow into court.

BENSON'S DEFENSE CLOSED.

He Concludes Three Days' Testimony in Land Fraud Case.

The case of the defense as to the part played by John A. Benson, in the Oregon land frauds trial, was closed yesterday, after Benson had been on the stand for two days.

He was examined further on his relations with Hyde before and after he had a contract with him. He denied that any great number of applications were filed by Hyde through his office, or vice versa.

Hyde's messenger testified that Hyde sought to back up his titles with affidavits, but was unable to, as the records were all destroyed in the San Francisco fire.
